

Century Equity Partners Creating Value Together

Century Equity Partners provides private equity capital to companies with enterprise value less than $300 million that are seeking capital to support growth or fund partial buyout or recapitalization opportunities in the lower middle-market.

Focusing exclusively on making private equity investments in lower middle-market financial services companies, we have become a leader in identifying and building businesses by leveraging our relationships and network. Our leadership team has a significant amount of experience in the financial services sector, each having held executive operating and/or investment roles within major financial institutions, investment banks, or private equity partnerships.

Accelerating Possibilities

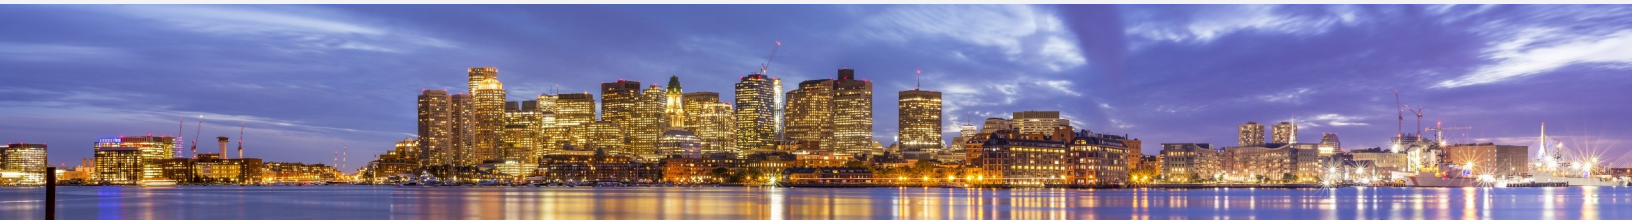

Identifying promising companies with tangible value propositions and potential to benefit from our strategic value-add is only the first part of Century's investment process. After providing a portfolio company with growth or buyout capital, Century helps the business further realize its potential and accelerate top line growth.

Beyond capital injection, we assist portfolio companies in several ways to develop strategy, grow, make operating improvements, and ultimately build shareholder value.

Additionally, Century sometimes applies a conservative amount of leverage to the company's balance sheet to augment shareholder value creation.
